GEO. W. LINCOLN,

THE WELL-KNOWN BUILDER, IS STILL IN THE FIELD AS A CON-I tractor, and is now better prepared to do any and all kinds of work appertaining to contracting or any other class of work belonging to his trade, in the same good and workmanlike manner as heretofore; having curtailed my shop expenses and still retain plenty of room to do any and all kinds of work appertaining to the building trade that may be entrusted to my care. I am enabled to do the same at very low rates, to suit the extremely dull times, and at the same time bearing in mind that what is worth doing at all is worth doing well.

Thanking the public for past favors, I remain respectfully yours, GEO. W. LINCOLN.

ROYAL CORRESPONDENCE. Letters Exchanged Between the Houses of Holland and Spain.

A correspondence has been going on between the Princess Wilhelmina. who is likely soon to be Queen of the Netherlands-notwithstanding the surprising recovery of her father, the King, from what was expected to be permanent insanity-and the infant

King of Spain. The Princess, who is in her ninth year, has always been delighted to hear all that her mother. Queen Emma, could tell her about the baby King of Spain. A day or two before her last birthday, entirely of her own accord, she sat down and wrote her cousin-all Kings and Queens are cousins-a letter, in which, after giving a list of her principal treasures. including her favorite big doll Pauline and her pet pony, she went on to tell him that some day she should be a Queen, though she did not want to be one one bit. She added that she supposed little Kings liked toys as well as other little boys, and if her mamma would allow her she would send him the biggest Noah's ark she had ever seen-which had in it every animal in the Zoological gardens at Rotterdam and others besides. Both the letter and the Noah's ark were sent to Madrid, and in due time the Princess Wilhelmina received from the King of Spain a charming little answer, written, of course, by his devoted mother. - London Queen.

Artists and men of letters sometimes insist upon doing their work under peculiar conditions, which people of other occupations often look upon as quite foolish and unnecessary. No doubt there is something to be said on both sides. Some writers, like Scott and Trollope, have been as methodical as any bookkeeper or mechanic. But, in general, if a man is to do his best at any kind of creative work, he must be surrounded by favorable conditions.
When Emerson had a lecture to finish, he was accustomed to go to Boston and take a room at a hotel, where he could be secure against interruption. But men are often more in danger from their own laziness or fickle-

The French painter, Gericault, had an abundant head of hair, of which he was very proud. Being extremely desirous of thishing his picture, "The Wreck of the Medusa," he had his head shaved completely smooth, and, by the time the hair was grown again, his great picture was done.

"I never should have painted it," he said, "if I had not cut ciff my hair.
I was seriously tempted, again and again, to throw away my brushes and rush out; but, disfigured as I was, I didn't dare!" of shade bears testimony to the fact that the manufacture has attained the utmost ness than from any outside intrusion.

Soitoux, the sculptor of a statue of the Republic which stands in front of the French institute in Paris, found it necessary to complete this work without intermission except for the most necessary rest. Being mechanically ingenious, he devised a sort of clock work which upset a glass of water upon his face after a certain time bad gone by.

Victor Hugo in writing "Notre Dame de Paris," had all his ordinary clothes taken from his house, and dressed himself in garments so fantastic that he dared not leave his room in

The painter Ziem, another Parisian, had himself locked in his studio while engaged upon a certain work, and confided the key to a m.a. whom he could trust, and who was under orders not to unlock the doors, even if the painter himself should command him, in the sternest manner, to do so, A hole was cut in the door, and through it, once a day, food was passed. Ziem worked on in this way through the coup d'etat of 1851, when Louis Napoleon ursurped the government, and the most stirring events were taking place. The painter knew nothing about them. He had left orders that no letter nor paper should be given

His picture finished at last, he came out of his long captivity to find that France had passed from a republic into a monarchy. - Youth's Companion.

aurow Suibeleva The first vessel of schooner rig is about the year 1713. When she went off the stocks into the water a bystander cried out: "Oh, how she secons!" The builder instantly replied: "A scooner let her be;" and from that time vessels thus rigged have gone by that name. The word scoon is popularly used in some parts of New England to denote the act of making stones skip along the surface of the water. The Scottish scon means the same thing. The word appears to have been originally written scooner. -Lincoln County News.

Quite Indifferent, You See. Father-Robert, is it not about time that little boys were about Robert (aged 6, carelessly glancing at his watch)-Really, father, 1 must be excused from venturing an opinion. It is a subject in which I have little interest; I have no little boys, you know. - Binghamton Republican.

Every day that the sun rises upon the American people it sees an addition of $2,500,000 to the accumulation of wealth is the United States, which is equal to one third the daily accumulation of all mankind outside the United States.
